
SUPV002 – Checking of the catalogues of messages

Summary:

This test does not have any physical meaning, it is only one data-processing test.

It makes it possible to check that the messages are correctly written in the catalogues including the translated messages can always be formatted.

Thus, during the creation of a catalogue in a new language, one can easily add the checking of the messages of this language and carry out this test to check that the translated messages could be displayed correctly.

Instructions on the drafting of the messages are given in [D6.04.01].

This documentation is voluntarily brief.